Develop PRIZE

Social entrepreneurship in developing countries

Doing good and making a profit at the same time

Develop Prize is based on a competition where students come together across universities to create innovative ideas with business potential and the potential to solve problems in the developing world. But it is so much more. With the help of seasoned experts in the field, these students make each other think. They come together to create application for their ideas. And the most excellent of them develop businesses that will make a difference in the world.

The Develop Prize competition runs from the beginning of the fall semester to the end of the spring semester. You can join Develop Prize at any point during the year even though there are some deadlines to participate in specific events. Participating teams can get coaching and counseling from members of the Advisory Board, expand their team, improve their ideas, develop their business plan and broaden their network.

Vision

Our vision is to promote social entrepreneurship through innovative thinking and create sustainable businesses that live up to the Millennium Development Goals.
